Book Title : The Musgrave Ritual

Author: Conan Doyle

I believe the murderer is Rachel Howells because of several reasons.

The first reason is that the housekeeper once broke her heart.

It is very suspicious of her to framed housekeeper.

The second reason is that She escaped when the housekeeper was gone, detectives and police went to find her, but couldn't find her, just leave a linen bag with stuff by the lake .

She might just be out for revenge, because his housekeeper broke her heart.

I personally think it is possible that the housekeeper may have told her his plan before, and then when the housekeeper implemented it, she may have given him a drink containing poison, so when the housekeeper found the treasure chest, he was foaming at the mouth and died , and then she fled.

Taking all aspects into consideration, Rachel Howells is undoubtedly the culprit behind the murder.
